Royal Retreats, Kumbhalgarh and Ranakpur

The Aodhi, Kumbhalgarh

Beside the hills, by a historic for discover a rare heritage.

Rana Kumbha (period of reign 1433 – 1468 AD), the builder extraordinaire, is credited with building thirty-two of the eighty – four fortresses that formed bull work of defense of the Kingdom of Mewar, constantly on its guard against the Mughal Armies. The towering gate of Kumbhalgarh has been a mute witness to a valorous past. The steep incline and the huge steps of stone, the fort was home to men who lived by the sword.....and died on the battle field, upholding the honor and pride of Mewar.

Hidden by trees, besides the hills crowned by the ruggedly majestic Kumbhalgarh Fort, nestles The Aodhi, a sanctuary-resort where the legacy of valorous kings of Mewar and their braves still lives.

Discover countless secrets of the centuries past while you explore on nature trails, fort visits and temple tours. Or simply relax in the privacy of your balcony, gazing into the amazingly blue skies. Let Kumbhalgarh overwhelm you.

Fateh Bagh, Ranakpur

Time-travel to the 18th century

Rediscover the Romantic Age

Ranakpur, a town named after Rana Kumbha is renowned for some marvellously carved Jain temples in marble stone. Ranakpur is amongst the five holiest places of the Jain community and exceptional in beauty. 90 km from Udaipur and two centuries back in time stands the proud Fateh Bagh. The arresting architecture, period furniture and ethnic décor recall a gentler, more romantic time.

The imposing square shaped, beige walls and majestic arches, intricately carved pillars and pavilions, beautiful domes and the wonderful fountain in the foreground are all far removed from the 'functional minimalism' that is worshipped as design today. The palace and its hospitality are recreated history.

Royal Retreats, Jaisalmer and Bikaner

Gorbandh Palace, Jaisalmer

The best vantage point of the fabled golden fort

Jaisalmer in Rajasthan is a desert city nestled in the foothills of Trikuta and it is famous for its imposing forts, exquisite palaces and havelis that showcase Jaisalmer's distinguished 'jali' work (stone lattice work), truly depicting the aesthetic sense of the medieval Rajput community. One of the most favored tourist destinations in Rajasthan, the city is frequented by domestic travelers as well as by foreign tourists.

It is in this beautiful city of Jaisalmer that the Gorbandh Palace is ideally located. The very name is inspired by the desert and its associated stories. Gorbandh is a harness which the desert women decorate for their husband's camel with any material they can find such as cowry shells, beads, sequins, coloured threads and even buttons. In this luxurious Royal Retreat you can enjoy all modern-day amenities in an authentic Rajasthani ambience. The retreat's lush greenery, fountains, state of the art spa and the blue waters of its swimming pool create a tranquil haven from the heat and dust of the desert city. Also nearby are the famous Sam Sand dunes, where you can party or stay overnight.

Karni Bhawan Palace, Bikaner

Step into the gracious age at this royal residence

Bikaner, the walled city on Rajasthan border is famous for its forts, palaces, temples, fairs and festivals, arts and crafts, folk music and wildlife. A good number of tourists visit this impressive and captivating city to explore its unblemished beauty and timeless charm as evident in various monuments. The city wraps layers of history and interesting anecdotes within its narrow streets lined with havelis and palaces.

This palace was home to Maharaja Karni Singh, Maharaja of Bikaner, and built in the deluxe art deco style, popular in the 1940s in the US and Europe. Its Doric pillars, ornamental staircases and large windows bear testimony to the artistic brilliance of the past. While its well-preserved paintings, old photographs (of the royal houses of Bikaner and Mewar), period furniture and curios lend a distinctive ambience that lends itself beautifully to special occasions.

Grand Heritage, Gajner (Bikaner)

Gajner Palace, Gajner

A lakeside palace-complex adjoining a sanctuary, in the middle of Thar Desert

Gajner Palace is a jewel in the Thar Desert; built by H.H. Maharaja Sir Ganga Singh of Bikaner on the edge of a lake. The property was converted into a heritage hotel in 1976. The hotel's compound stretches over 6000 acres. The Palace was primarily a hunting resort during the days of the British Raj and attracted several eminent dignitaries, including the Prince of Wales in 1905, The Governor General Lord Elgin, Lord Mountbatten when he was Viceroy of India, and Lord Erwin in 1927. The Imperial Sand Grouse shoots at Gajner Palace during the Christmas season was the most sought after invitation in the Indian social calendar.

Sir Ganga Singh was also an avid wild life conservator. He introduced different breeds of deer and birds into the State sanctuaries, wildlife preserves were replanted, and wardens were posted to see that no poaching took place in the jungle. There was a ban on hunting of animals during the breeding season and the killing of female animals and their young was strictly prohibited.

Maharaja Karni Singh, grandson of Sir Ganga Singh converted the hunting preserve of Gajner in to a wildlife sanctuary, home to endangered antelopes like the chinkara, black buck, blue bull as well as other unusual animals. The sanctuary and lake attract more than a hundred species of migratory birds during the winter months. Today you can shoot to your heart's content with a camera and catch demoiselle cranes along the banks of Gajner Lake.

Gajner Palace is a Grand Heritage Palace of the HRH Group of Hotels. It's sought after for corporate events, conferences and regal weddings for large and small groups.
